
IntmaxWallet terms & conditions

Version 1.0 – March 2023

1. Scope

These terms and conditions ("Terms") govern the access to and use of a browser-based, non-custodial wallet software ("IntmaxWallet") allowing you as a user ("you") to interact with your blockchain assets (together "Services") provided by Ryodan Systems AG, Hirschengraben 40, 6003 Luzern, Switzerland ("Ryodan").

By clicking to accept the Terms or using the Services, you agree to be bound by these Terms and all other terms or documents referenced herein, which together constitute a legally binding agreement between you and Ryodan. If you are using the Services on behalf of a company or other entity, then "you" includes you and that entity, and you represent and warrant that (a) you are an authorized representative of the entity with authority to bind the entity to the Terms, and (b) you agree to these Terms on the entity's behalf.

Ryodan reserves the right to change these Terms, the Services, or any part of it from time to time or suspend the Services or parts of it temporarily or definitively at any time at its own discretion. Such changes will be effective from the date of publication on the IntmaxWallet's website. You should review the Terms on a regular basis, and your continued use of the Services following any amendments indicates acceptance of the changes to the Terms. Please note, however, that the IntmaxWallet is a non-custodial service and any changes to the IntmaxWallet do not affect any of your blockchain assets as long as you retain your private key safely.

If you do not agree to these Terms or any changes to the Terms, you may not access or use the Services.

2. Services

The IntmaxWallet allows you to generate wallet addresses and associated private keys that you may use to send and receive digital assets such as cryptocurrencies and NFTs ("Assets") and swap or trade digital assets through applications or functionalities made available by third party service provider(s).

IntmaxWallet is non-custodial, which means that you have exclusive control of the Assets and also bear exclusive responsibility for those Assets. Ryodan has no power to dispose over your wallet or Assets, and does not store any recovery key, passwords and/or private keys. It is your sole responsibility to ensure safe backup of your private key and you acknowledge and agree that the loss of your private key may lead to the irreversible loss of your Assets. Ryodan accepts no responsibility or liability for your Assets, your use of the Services, or any transactions initiated using the IntmaxWallet.

3. Eligibility for the Services

To be able to use the Services, you must:

- Be at least the age of majority (and in any case at least eighteen years old) and have the full right, power, and authority to enter into and comply with these Terms.

You can only use the Services if permitted under the laws of your jurisdiction. If you are located outside of Switzerland, you are solely responsible for ensuring that your access to and use of the Services in such country, territory or jurisdiction does not violate any applicable laws.

4. Your wallet & access

In order to create a wallet with IntmaxWallet, you must connect a hardware device equipped with a biometric interface, i.e., a feature on your device that enables identification and authentication through biological characteristics such as fingerprint scanning, or facial recognition, or use USB security key provided by third-party.

When creating your wallet, a wallet address and a private key will be generated. The private key is encrypted and stored on your device. It can only be decrypted with the biometric interface of your device. As a backup, you can also store a password encrypted private key.

Anyone that gains access to your private key can dispose of your Assets, and if you lose your private key, you lose your Assets. Therefore, make sure you take precautions to avoid loss and/or unauthorized access to your wallet. Suggested measures include, but are not limited to, the following: (a) storing the encrypted backup safely; (b) never storing the password for the encrypted backup on your device; (c) never storing the password in an unsecured physical location; (d) limiting access to the device associated with the private key; and (e) taking all necessary precautions against malware on the devices and networks.

The access to your wallet relies on your device's biometric authentication process to decrypt your private key. Ryodan does not store, access, or process any of your biometric data or private key. The access to your wallet is thus only as secure as the biometric authentication process of your device and it is your sole responsibility to assess and ensure the security of such process.

5. Use of third-party services
